Evansville News

Evansville, Feb. 26.—Last evening a large crowd gathered at the Magee hall to witness the basketball game between Evansville and Oregon High school teams. This game was of more than usual interest because the Evansville team lost the game played at Oregon two weeks ago. The floor in Oregon was far from the regulation size. Both teams were out for victory last night and enthusiasm ran high. When the final signal was given Evansville won by a score of 28 to 19.

Following is the line-up:
OREGON.
Sweeney, rf., made 3 baskets; 1 free throw; Grady, lf., 4 baskets; Cyburn, c., 2 baskets; Ace, rg., Berry, lg.

EVANSVILLE.
Hubbard, rf., made 1 basket; Lee, lf., 5 baskets; Toiles, c., 2 baskets; Baird, rf., 5 baskets; 2 free throws; Stewart, lf., 5 baskets; 2 free throws.

Score-keeper: Bouet; time-keeper: Bullard; referee: Hemming, Janesville. Capt. Toiles, Lee and Baird played a fine game, Lee making a basket in seconds after the opening whistle. Hubbard and Stewart also played a good game, upholding the credit of the E. H. S.

Saturday the local team goes to Beloit where they will play the Beloit team. Then comes the tournament at Whitewater.

An unusually good presentation of the play, "Charles' Aunt," has just been given by the Evansville players at the Magee opera house. This organization during the past two years has presented several good plays by many of the best actors in the city. The play is a comedy and abounds in many funny situations, and is a scream from start to finish. It would be difficult indeed to name any one as star actor, for all parts were especially well taken. The play is one that affords good individual work and each one seemed well suited to their part. The young women taking part in the play were the Misses Gault, Maurer, Antes, Holcombe.

Among the men were Messrs. Bouet, Earl Fellows, Paul and Spencer Pullen, John Kennedy, Lynn Roberts and Lenore Clark. The music given was very good and worthy of special mention, for at this time the new orchestra under the leadership of Mr. Lindsey made its initial appearance, also a chorus of young women under the leadership of Miss Esther Franklin sang a number of songs.

... and with the 200 men who sailed for the Peace Conference

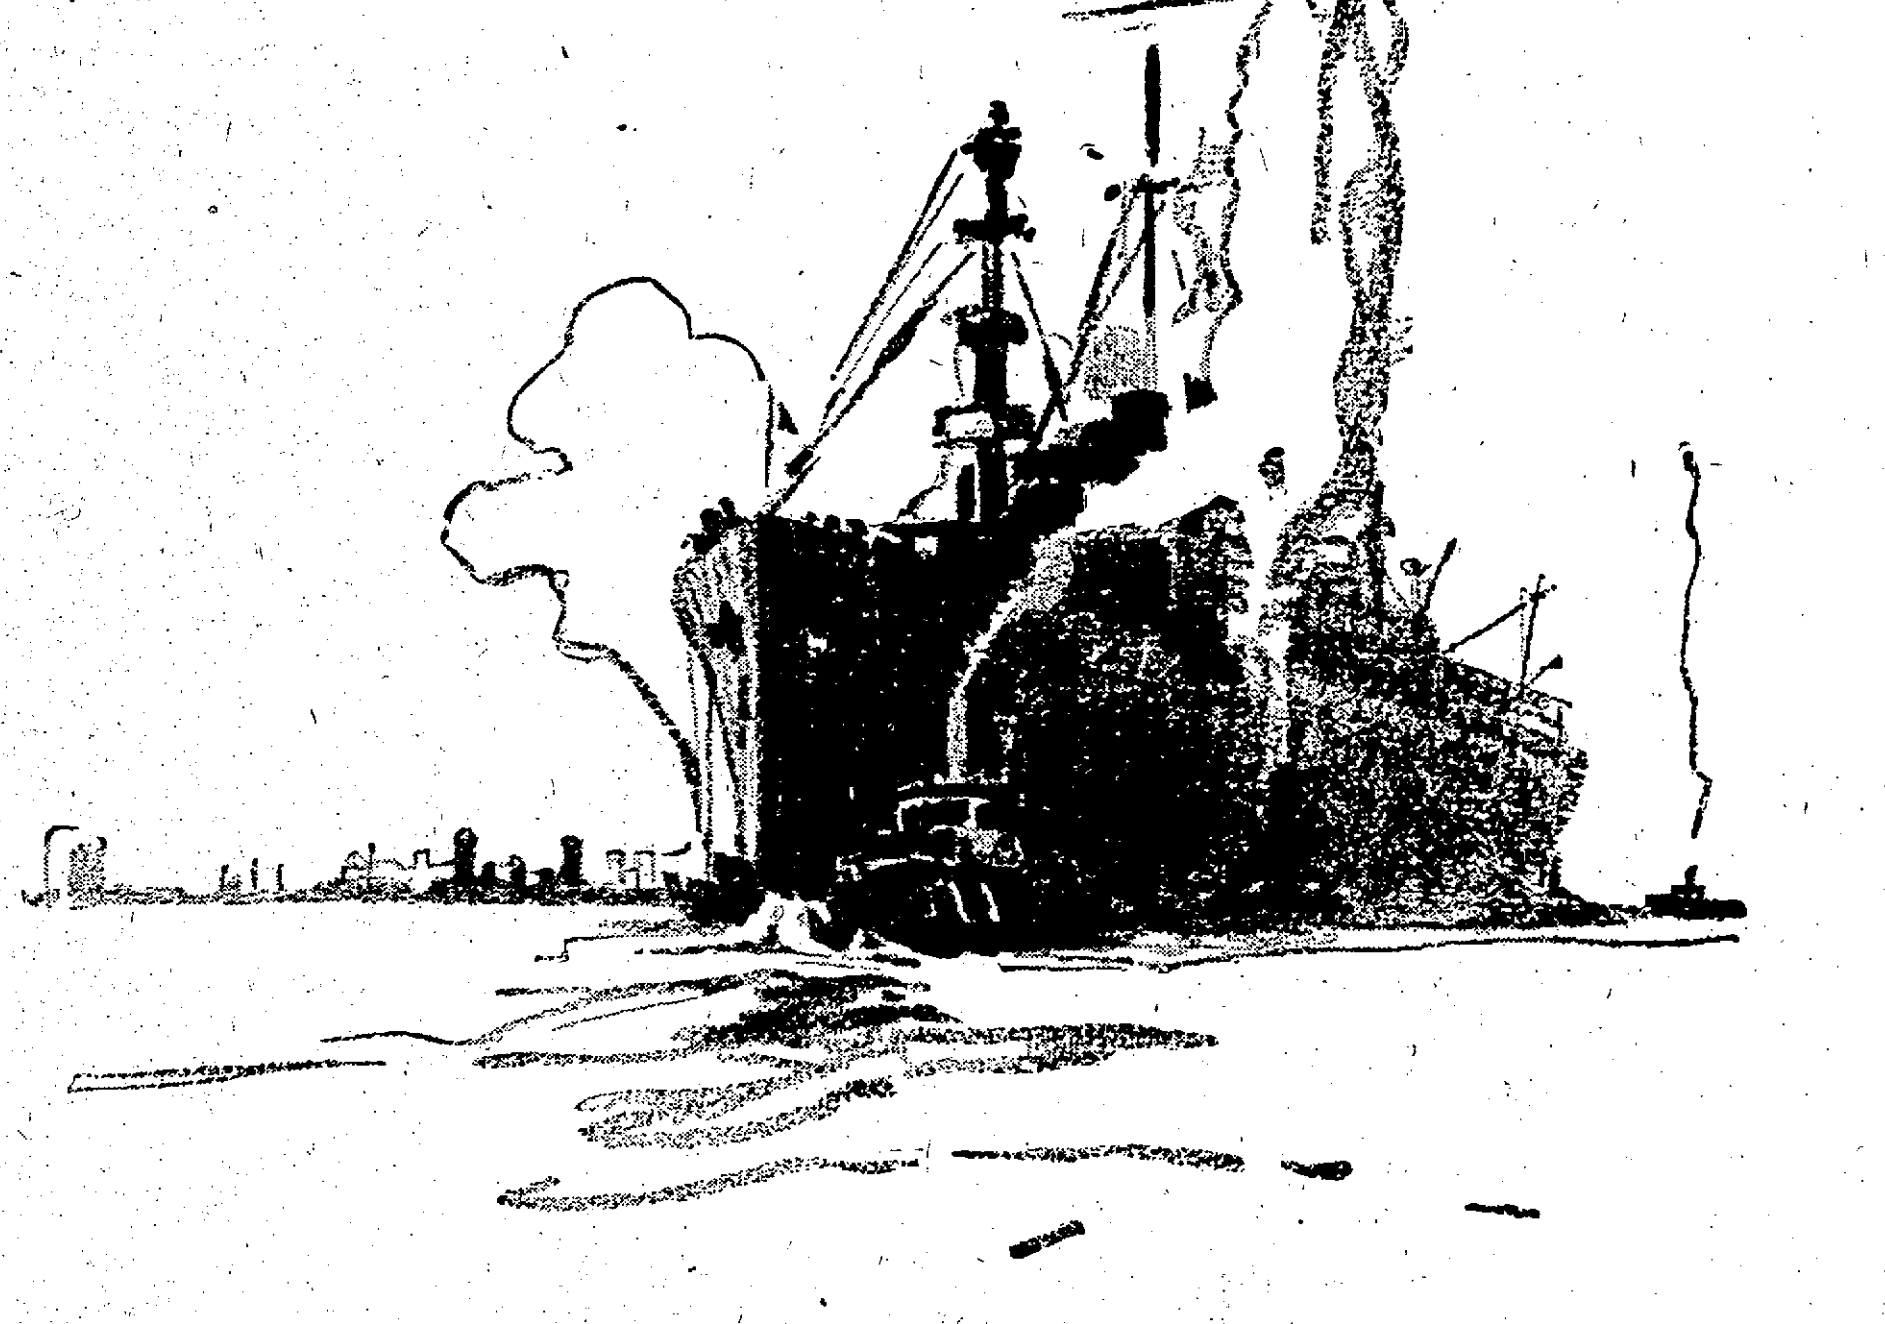

A fact:

For the 200 or more men of note who sailed on the George Washington for the Peace Conference, more than a dozen different brands of cigarettes were carried in stock by the ship's "canteen." Of these, the cigarette carried and sold in far the largest quantity was Fatima.

Loggatt & Myers Tobacco Co.

FATIMA
A Sensible Cigarette

NOTE—The really big man hasn't any use for "frills." He appreciates the plain but practical Fatima package because he realizes the extra value that's put into the cigarette itself. But chiefly, it's "Fatima's" taste and the fact that Fatima never "talks back" that keeps warm the friendship of so many men for Fatima.

MERCHANTS HERE JUMP TOBACCO PRICE; FATE OF BEER IN QUESTION

Prices on manufactured tobaccos of all forms and descriptions took a jump at midnight last night as the result of the signing of the luxury tax bill by President Wilson yesterday. Many local retailers of the weed stayed up all night completing their inventories so they could do business this morning. As a result some of them were a little "peevish" this morning when purchasers "bickered" on the advance. Cigarettes today cost from 3 to 5 cents more per package than yesterday, the majority of the brands going up a nickel. Cigars advanced from 1 to 3 cents each, some of the old 10-cent brands now selling at 13 cents each or two for a quarter. Smoking and plug tobacco prices also moved skyward a couple of notches.

Most of the local saloon keepers advanced prices on whiskey five cents today making the price for a "shot" 25 cents. As a number of liquor dealers are undecided as to what they will do about beer, some of them favor cutting the size of a glass of the foaming fluid so that it can still be sold for a nickel while others want to pay a little bit more each time and sell it for a dime a glass. Either the size of the glass must be changed or the price raised one to three cents. A nickel was enough to buy a glass of beer in many of the saloons today.

Candy retailers will soon be forced to raise prices as a result of the tax. Although the bill does not effect stocks of candy now held by them it does tax the manufacturers so with the buying of more candy from the wholesalers in the future, the retailers will have to raise prices accordingly.

HENRY C. KLEIN TO DECIDE ON THURSDAY

"I will positively make my announcement on Thursday regarding the majority situation," Henry C. Klein said this morning when asked if he was going to announce his candidacy before Lent.

Mr. Klein was to have made his announcement this morning, but he stated owing to the absence of several of his friends he did not want to make any announcement until he had interviewed them.

"I have not as yet decided whether I will make the race or not," he said this morning, "but I am contemplating my candidacy and I will positively make my decision known to the public on Thursday."

Henry C. Klein, former chief of the tax department, stated that he has been asked by no less than 200 residents to consent to be a mayoralty candidate.

PRE-LENTEN DANCE ON MONDAY EVENING

Invitations have been issued for a pre-Lenten dancing party to be given at the Apollo hall next Monday evening. It will be the last big dancing party before Lent.

Every effort is being made by the young men in charge of the party to make it the biggest success of the dancing season. The Milwaukee orchestra will furnish the music, and local dance lovers who attended the annual Lakota club ball this season will remember the wonderful music furnished by the Milwaukee orchestra.

One Lone Inebriate Before Judge Maxfield

William Carlin spoiled a perfectly good day for Judge Maxfield in the municipal court this morning. Carlin was the only inebriate to be brought before the judge. When the drunkard finished his talk to the young fellow, Carlin hung his head in shame.

Carlin was arrested about four o'clock this morning and entered a plea of guilty to the charge of being intoxicated when arraigned. He was fined $7 and costs or 10 days.

A unique series of "get acquainted" parties have been arranged by Mrs. S. Taylor to introduce new-comers in the Baptist church to other ladies connected with it. Two of these have been held on succeeding Fridays, and another will be held this week. The idea is to promote sociability among the members of the society, and to get acquainted with the new members.

About twenty were included in the gathering last week, and about the same number will be entertained this Friday. Some of the ladies assist Mrs. Taylor in some simple form of entertainment, and help serve the light refreshments.

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their kindness and assistance shown us during our recent bereavement. Also, to thank the blacksmith department of the Janesville Machine Co., the Hough Shade corporation, and the W. A. U. Mrs. Emma Pierson and Children.

MASS MEETING TO DISCUSS DISPENSARY

Plans have been made for an open mass meeting, for a general discussion of arrangements connected with securing a public health dispensary for the city, at which Theodore Werli will speak. The meeting will be held at the library, Friday evening at 7:45, when Mr. Werli will present facts and figures showing the great need of such an institution just at this time.

As now outlined, there are funds available from the tuberculosis appropriation from the Red Cross drive and also from state funds appropriated for the fight against venereal diseases which would be sufficient to finance the dispensary for at least a year or two. All that is needed is a sufficient organization to make plans and arrangements.

Health would probably send a social worker, to carry on health work among the school children and also in homes. Her work would be different from that of the visiting nurse.

Wherever the plan has been tried of having a city dispensary it has been warmly endorsed by the medical profession, as it has been found that it cases for the charity cases which most physicians dislike to bother with. The service is not given free, but the fees are very small, so that self-respecting people will be glad to pay them.

The medical profession, business men and ladies ladies are especially invited to this meeting, which it is expected will plan something well worth while to the city.

U. S. ENVOY'S WIFE BUSY WAR WORKER

There were monkeys too, all making the long trip from the west as the protectors of Mrs. Mabel Hall Campbell, who is the wife of the U. S. Envoy to Mexico. Mrs. Hall went to California about two weeks and a half ago to secure animals for the circus. Her "find is today comfortably tucked in the heated barn at the Campbell residence on North First street.

Baby elephant is to have a tutor, too. She is an untrained, unbroken little night of the night. The Hall circus backers are going to bring her up as their own, with their own individual trick ideas firmly impressed upon her rather fertile brain.

An elephant trainer from Banaroo, who was formerly with the Gollmar Bros. circus, is to take the "child" in charge. The Hall circus is organized by Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Campbell and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hall, Whitewater. It is to open at Evansville, April 26, after which an extensive tour of Canada will be made. All the help has been secured and is due to arrive at the new circus city in April.

The federated church is offering the community the opportunity to hear some notable men. Last Sunday President Davis spoke. Next Sunday evening Dr. S. Hall Young will give his famous illustrated lecture on Alaska. The 9th of March Dr. Wm. Herman Foulkes, Chairman for the New Era movement for the United States will speak and on the 23 of March Prof. Paul E. Nilson of St. Paul's college, Tarsus, Turkey, will speak on the "Turkish Situation." The public is invited.

MYERS THEATRE.
If you are a bit squirmish about plain speaking on certain subjects, when you find out what the piece is all about which is to appear at the Myers theatre, Friday evening, February 28, you will likely say to yourself, "Very Idea," or words to that effect.
But William Le Baron, the author, beats you to it. He used the exclamation of shocked surprise as the title of his farce. That prepares you for the shock and leaves you nothing of which to complain. The audacity of the thing is exhilarating. Even if you do not approve of dealing humorously with a delicate subject, Mr. Le Baron's deftness in handling it must win your admiration. And there is no use denying, according to all critics in larger centers of amusement, that the lines are deliciously funny, and that the situations are extremely comical. So what's the use getting all fussed up because the author and the star and the company get fun out of calling a spade a spade.

MYERS THEATRE.
Direct From the Battlefields.
Uncle Sam's Yankee Minstrels, which come to the Myers theatre, Sunday, matinee, and night, March 2, is composed of veterans of Pershing's army, some of them wounded so badly that they will never again be able to take up their vocation. Now standing the fact that these boys have gone through the tortures of Hell for us, they still have the ability to entertain, and the minstrel show that they present compares favorably with the best. Probably the most interesting soldier in the troupe is Sergeant Ritchie, who is a veteran of veterans, having seen 15 years of active service, and has taken part in every skirmish that the United States has had, in his time. Twice he has been called to Mexico. In 1901 he was seriously wounded in the Boxer revolution. China, and only one last year he was three times wounded, once gassed, and was captured by the Germans only to escape 24 hours later. He is a born soldier and fighter, and is a most interesting talker. His ten-minute talk on "Fun Atrocities" is thrilling from start to finish.
The Rainbow quartet, Van Laurence, the xylophone player, Ray Garrett, the musician, moko, and the Buglers Three comprise the vaudeville or olio part of the program.
The 87th Infantry jazz band and orchestra, furnish the musical side of the organization, and their free open air concert every night in front of the theater is always greeted by thousands.

The tour of the Uncle Sam's Yankee Minstrels is limited to thirty days, and thirty cities only will be visited, this city being one of the fortunate ones, and it is hoped that the enthusiastic citizens will turn out and give the boys a crowded house.

His Love Story

By MARIE VAN VORST
Illustrations by RAY WALTERS
Copyright by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

"The dog!" Tremont shook him again. "Not yet." And he said to the man: "If this is all you have to tell me, I will give you one hundred francs for this parcel. You can go and don't return here again."

"But it is not all," said the native quietly, looking at Julia.

Her heart began to beat like mad and she looked at the man. His keen dark eyes seemed to pierce her.

"Monsieur," said the American girl boldly, "would you leave me a moment with him? I think he wants to speak with me alone."

But the Duc de Tremont exclaimed in surprise:

"To speak with you alone, Mademoiselle! Why should he? Such a thing is not possible!"

"Don't go far," she begged, "but leave us a moment, I pray."

When Tremont, with great hesitation, took a few steps away from them and she stood face to face with the creature who had been with Sabron and seen him fall, she said earnestly:

"Now speak without reserve. Tell me everything."

The face of the man was transformed. He became human, devoted, ardent.

"Excellency," he said swiftly in his halting French, "I love Monsieur de Tremont. He was so kind and such a brave soldier. I want to go to find Monsieur de Tremont, but I am ill and too weak to walk. I believe I know where he is hid—I want to go."

The girl breathed:

"Oh, can it be possible that what you say is true, Hammet Abou? Would you really go if you could?"

The man made, with a graceful gesture of his hand, a map in the air.

"It was like this?" he said: "I think he drew himself up the bank. I followed the track of his blood. I was too weak to go any farther, Excellency."

"And how could you go now?" she asked.

PETEY DINK—NOW PETEY KNOWS HOW HE STANDS IN SOCIETY.

"By caravan, like a merchant, secretly, I would find him."

Julia Redmond put out a slim hand, white as a gardenia. The native lifted it and touched his forehead with it.

"Hammet Abou," she said, "go away for tonight and come tomorrow—we will see you." And without waiting to speak again to Monsieur de Tremont, the native slid away out of the garden like a shadow, as though his limbs were not weak with disease and his breast shattered by shot.

When Monsieur de Tremont had walked once around the garden, keeping his eyes nevertheless on the group, he came back toward Julia Redmond, but not quickly enough, for she ran up the stairs and into the house with Sabron's packet in her hand.

CHAPTER XVIII.

Two Lovely Women.

There was music at the Villa des Bougainvilles. Miss Redmond sang; not "Good-night, God Keep You Safe," but other things. Ever since her talk with Hammet Abou she had been, if not gay, in good spirits, more like her old self, and the Marquise d'Esclagnac began to think that the image of Charles de Sabron had not been cut too deeply upon her mind. The Marquise, from the lounge in the shadow of the room, enjoyed the picture (Sabron would not have added it to his collection) of her niece at the piano and the Duc de Tremont by her side. The Comtesse de la Maine sat in a little shadow of her own, musing and enjoying the picture of the Duc de Tremont and Miss Redmond very indifferently. She did not sing; she had no parlor accomplishments. She was poor, a widow, and had a child. She was not a brilliant match.

From where he stood, Tremont could see the Comtesse de la Maine in her little shadow, the oriental decorations a background to her slight Parisian figure, and a little out of the shadow, the bright argent in her hair danced, shaking its sparkles of fire. She looked infinitely sad and infinitely appealing. One bare arm was along the back of her lounge. She leaned her head upon her hand.

After a few moments the Duc de Tremont quietly left the piano and Miss Redmond, and went and sat down beside the Comtesse de la Maine, who, in order to make a place for him, moved out of the shadow.

Julia, one after another, played songs she loved, keeping her fingers resolutely from the notes that wanted to run into a single song, the music, the song that linked her to the man whose life had become a mystery. She glanced at the Duc de Tremont and the Comtesse de la Maine. She glanced at her aunt, patting Mimi, who, freshly washed, adorned by pale blue ribbon, looked disdainful and princely, and with passion and feeling she began to sing the song that seemed to reach beyond the tawdry reality of the villa in Algiers, and to go into the desert, trying in sweet intensity to speak and to comfort, and as she sang, to sing to one man, Sabron would have adored adding that picture to his collection.

The servant came up to the Marquise and gave her a message. The lady rose, beckoned Tremont to follow her, and went out on the veranda, followed by Mimi. Julia stopped playing and went over to the Comtesse de la Maine.

"Where have my aunt and Monsieur de Tremont gone, Madame?"

"To see someone who has come to suggest a camel excursion, I believe."

"He chooses a curious hour."

"Everything is curious in the East, Mademoiselle," returned the Comtesse. "I feel as though my own life were turned upside down."

"We are not far enough in the East for that," smiled Julia Redmond. She regarded the Comtesse with her frank girlish scrutiny. There was in it a fine truthfulness and utter disregard of all the barriers that long epochs of etiquette put between souls.

Julia Redmond knew nothing of French society and of the deference due to the arts of the old world. She snew, perhaps, very little of anything. She was young and unschooled. She knew, as some women know, how to feel, and how to be, and how to love. She was as honest as her ancestors, among whose traditions is the story that one of them could never tell a lie.

Julia Redmond sat beside the Comtesse de la Maine, whose elegance she admired enormously, and taking one of the lady's hands, with a frank liking she asked in her rich young voice:

"Why do you tolerate me, Madame?"

"Ma chere enfant," exclaimed the Comtesse. "Why, you are adorable."

"It is terribly good of you to say so," murmured Julia Redmond. "It shows how generous you are."

"But you attribute qualities to me I do not deserve, Mademoiselle."

"You deserve them and much more, Madame. I loved you the first day I saw you; no one could help loving you."

Julia Redmond was irresistible. The Comtesse de la Maine, whose elegance she admired enormously, and taking one of the lady's hands, with a frank liking she asked in her rich young voice:

"I think the same of you, ma chere, vous etes charmante."

Julia Redmond shook her head. She did not want compliments. The eyes of the two women met and read each other.

"Couldn't you be frank with me, Madame? It is so easy to be frank."

It was, indeed, impossible for Julia Redmond to be anything else. The Comtesse, who was only a trifle older than the young girl, felt like her mother just then. She laughed.

"But be frank—about what?"

"You see," said Julia Redmond swiftly, "I care absolutely nothing for the Duc de Tremont, nothing."

"You don't love him?" returned Madame de la Maine, with deep accentuation. "Is it possible?"

The girl smiled.

"Yes, quite possible. I think he is a perfect dream. He is a splendid friend and I am devoted to him, but I don't love him at all, not at all."

"Ah!" breathed Madame de la Maine, and she looked at the American girl guardedly.

For a moment it was like a passage of arms between a frank young Indian chief and a Jesuit. Julia, as it were, shook her feathers and her beads.

"And I don't care in the least about being a duchess! My father made his money in oil. I am not an aristocrat like my aunt," she said.

"Then," said the Comtesse de la Maine, forgetting that she was a Jesuit, "you will marry Robert de Tremont simply to please your aunt?"

"But nothing on earth would induce me to marry him!" cried Julia Redmond. "That's what I'm telling you, Madame. I don't love him!"

The Comtesse de la Maine looked at her companion and bit her lip. She blushed more warmly than is permitted in the Faubourg St-Germain, but she was young and the western influence is pernicious.

"I saw at once that you loved him," said Julia Redmond frankly. "That's why I speak as I do."

The Comtesse de la Maine drew back and exclaimed.

"Oh," said Julia Redmond, "don't deny it. I shan't like you half so well if you do. There is no shame in being in love, is there?—especially when the man you love, loves you."

The Comtesse de la Maine broke down, or, rather, she rose high. She rose above all the smallness of convention and the rules of her French formal education.

"You are wonderful," she said, laughing softly, her eyes full of tears. "Will you tell me what makes you think that he is fond of me?"

"But you know it so well," said Julia. "Hasn't he cared for you for a long time?"

Madame de la Maine wondered just how much Julia Redmond had heard, and as there was no way of finding out, she said glaucously:

"He has seemed to love me very dearly for many years; but I am poor; I have a child. He is ambitious and he is the Duc de Tremont."

"Nonsense," said Julia. "He loves you. That's all that counts. You will be awfully happy. You will marry the Duc de Tremont, won't you? There's a dear."

"Happy," murmured the other woman, "happy, my dear friend, I never dreamed of such a thing!"

"Dream of it now," said Julia Redmond swiftly, "for it will come, true."

CHAPTER XIX.

The Man in Rags.

The Marquise d'Esclagnac, under the stars, interviewed the native soldier, the beggar, the man in rags, at the foot of the veranda. There was a moon as well as stars, and the man was distinctly visible in all his squalor.

"What on earth is he talking about, Robert?"

"About Sabron, marraine," said her godson laconically.

The Marquise d'Esclagnac raised her lorgnon and said:

"Speak, man! What do you know about Monsieur de Sabron? See, he is covered with dirt—has leprosy, probably. But she did not withdraw. She was a great lady, and stood her ground. She did not know what the word 'squeamish' meant."

Listening to the man's jargon and putting many things together, Tremont at last turned to the Marquise d'Esclagnac who was sternly fixing the beggar with her haughty condescension:

"Marraine, he says that Sabron is alive, in the hands of natives in a certain district where there is no travel, in the heart of the sedition tribes. He says that he has friends in a caravan of merchants who once a year pass the spot where this native village is."

"The man's a lunatic," said the Marquise d'Esclagnac calmly. "Get Abimelec and put him out of the garden, Robert. You must not let Julia hear of this."

DINNER STORIES

The Great Man was trying a rest cure in a small village. He was not well with his symptoms and visited the local chemist for the purpose of obtaining a preventive.

"Give the very thing for you," exclaimed the chemist, triumphantly. "Thompson's Tonic; one dollar a bottle."

"No, no, no," said the customer, energetically.

"But it's the very thing for your case. All the doctors are recommending it. We can't sell it fast enough."

"Believe you, but I'd prefer something else."

"Nonsense! What's your objection?"

"Only that I am Thompson." And the customer beat a hasty retreat.

"Marriage with so many of our marriageable young men in France is quite difficult," remarked Congresswoman Rankin.

"It reminds me of the two girls who were conversing in a Paris tea room."

"I'm going to learn teaching," one of them said.

"I'd rather marry a widower with six children than be a teacher."

"Ah, so would I," said the first, "but where's the widower?"

Mr. Simpson's voice rumbled through the house. "Mary, here's the baker. How many loaves? Two as usual."

"Two loaves, indeed," replied Mrs. Simpson. "Have you forgotten that Jack is coming home on leave today?"

"Of course," said Mr. Simpson, as he suddenly remembered his sailor son, who was coming home. "Here, Mr. Baker, back your cart up against this door, and tip her up."

The home talent play, "Back to the Farm," was considered by those present one of the best ever given here.

Every part was well taken and the play was full of fun. The attendance was large and receipts were between $55 and $60.

Mrs. Sue Fessenden received a letter from a sergeant in the same company with her son, Willard. The sergeant reports that Willard was corporal of an automatic rifle squad and when advancing up a hill in the second phase of the Argonne battle fell as they were advancing on Oct. 4th. This is the first word she has had from any source since the armistice was signed. He was killed by machine gun fire and was hit in the breast. The sergeant had written Mrs. Fessenden as he was a bunko of Willard's and had noticed Willard's letters were marked "missing," and he had written her the sad news. In the letter the sergeant stated Willard was well liked by all, from the captain down, and was a soldier to be proud of.

By popular request the home talent play, "Back to the Farm," given last Friday night, will be repeated Thursday night.

Millions of Catarrh Germs Afloat in the Air

Atmosphere is Laden With Germs of The Disease.

Every person afflicted with Catarrh releases millions of the tiny disease germs with every cough or sneeze, so that whenever on the street cars or street or other public place you see a person afflicted with this disease hacking and coughing and sneezing, everyone in their vicinity is exposed to the disease.

You along with everyone else will find yourself exposed to the germs of Catarrh several times every day. The germs multiply by the millions, and the air you breathe is thick with these tiny little disease germs that cause so much distress and suffering.

Catarrh is one of the most stubborn diseases, and is always worse in cold, damp and disagreeable weather. It should not, however, be considered incurable, though there are thousands afflicted with it who are doubtless ready to believe that a cure is impossible, because of their experience.

But like all other afflictions, the main trouble is that Catarrh is entirely misunderstood, and therefore treated in the wrong way.

These little germ disease attacks, the throat, choking up the air passages and irritating the tender lining of the nostrils and bronchial tubes, the average sufferer makes the mistake of treating merely the symptoms of the disease, and overlooks its cause.

You must realize that Catarrh is more than a mere local irritation that stops up your nose and irritates your throat and chokes up your breathing apparatus.

Your blood is saturated with Catarrh germs, and these will continue their irritating attacks as long as they remain in the blood.

The only sensible treatment, therefore, is the one which will rout the disease germs from the blood.

This is why the most satisfactory remedy for Catarrh is S. S. S., the famous old reliable blood purifier. S. S. S. has been used successfully for Catarrh for more than fifty years, and it is the one remedy that attacks the source of the disease, cleansing the blood thoroughly, and eliminating from it every trace of disease germs.

If you want a remedy that goes direct to the seat of the disease, begin to take S. S. S. to-day, and throw away your atomizers and other local treatment that cannot possibly reach your Catarrh. You will be delighted after giving this remedy a trial, and will soon find yourself on the road to a complete recovery.

S. S. S. is sold by druggists.

Begin its use to-day, and write for free medical advice about your own individual case. Address Chief Medical Adviser, 103 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.—(Adv.)

Delicate Children Vinol is What They Need

More than eight thousand druggists recommend Vinol because it contains in deliciously palatable form the oldest and most famous reconstructive tonics known to medicine. During the last sixteen years it has brought health and happiness to thousands of puny, ailing, anaemic children.

Middletown, Conn. "I used Vinol for my little girl five years old for a rundown, nervous condition. She was thin, irritable all the time and had no appetite. In a week I noticed an improvement and now she has a good appetite, has gained in flesh and strength and is much pleasanter."—Mrs. C. B. Wilkinson.

For all run-down, nervous, anaemic conditions, weak women, overworked men, feeble old people and delicate children, there is no remedy like Vinol.

Demolished Coaches in Rockford Wreck.

COACH IN WHICH HARRY SMITH MET DEATH.

SMOKER WHICH TOPPLED OVER EMBANKMENT.

"Despite the many stories that we were traveling 60 miles per hour, I know that we were not going that fast," said W. B. Thompson, 115 South Main street, conductor on the ill-fated St. Paul train which was wrecked north of Rockford on Monday evening.

"There is no slow order at that place," he said, "and as we had over 30 minutes to go 15 miles there was no occasion for us to run at 60 miles an hour."

Mr. Thompson is still confined to his home here suffering from an injured back and several bruises. His right leg is injured, his left arm bruised and his right arm cut. Mr. Hamilton, the engineer, also a resident of this city could not be located this morning.

Both Mr. Thompson and Mr. Hamilton have been in the service of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad for the past 36 years and he is the first time in that period that either of the men have been in a wreck.

"When we found Harry Smith," Mr. Thompson said, "he was buried under the second car and was dead when taken from the debris." Mr. Smith was not badly mutilated as reported," he said, "but death was instantaneous."

A. S. Krotz, superintendent of the mechanical department of the Samson Tractor company was back at his work this morning and stated that he did not suffer any bad injuries.

"I have nothing to say regarding the wreck," Mr. Krotz said, "with the exception that the company was terribly slow in getting relief to the injured." "It was a terrible night out, cold and raining and we were forced to wait a long time before any help arrived," he said.

Mr. Blebenger and W. L. Springer remained at the Rockford hospital last evening, but Mr. Krotz stated this morning that undoubtedly they would return to Janesville within a few days.

Mrs. Brown of Sabula, Ia., who was probably fatally injured, did not die according to word received in this city from Rockford this morning.

Melvin Howe, of this city, who suffered a fractured leg and a broken collar bone was reported this morning to be much improved.

Coroner McAllister has drawn a jury to hold a late hour inquest this afternoon. He had not set any specific hour or date for the inquest.

The body of Harry B. Smith arrived in the city yesterday and was taken to the Ryan Undertaking parlors. The funeral for the wreck victim will be held from St. Patrick's church at 9 o'clock Friday morning.

FATE OF STATE MINING SCHOOL IN BALANCE

Madison, Feb. 26.—A fight to abolish the state mining school at Plattville was made before the joint finance committee Tuesday afternoon. Major F. A. Fitzpatrick appeared before the committee on the measure. He said the board of public affairs had asked that this work be consolidated with the Plattville normal, but that the control board of education did not favor this policy. Appearing in opposition to the bill were S. E. Smalley, Dunou McGregory, former Senator Platt Whitman, Senator M. E. Roethlisberger, H. C. George and E. A. Goodnow, all of that vicinity. The indications are that the school will be retained.

"The state board of education would recommend as to mining education in general, that short courses similar to the short courses of agriculture be offered by the University to persons of common school education or better, in the mining industry," said Major Fitzpatrick.

James Pedersen, Assemblyman, introduced a bill which would put an end to one man street cars.

The bill provides that every corporation operating a street car or interurban railway in this state shall cause every car operated by it to come to a standstill at least 20 feet from the nearest rail of the track of any steam railway to be crossed at grade, and such car shall not be caused, or permitted to cross such railway, until an employee of such corporation shall have ascertained from a position on such track that it is safe to proceed and cross such track, and shall have so signalled the motorman in charge of such car.

LAKOTA CARDINALS PLAY FAIRIES AT ARMORY THIS EVENING

Tonight at the Armory the Lakota Cardinals and the Beloit Fairies will clash for the first time in three years. It is the first time in that time that Janesville has had a basketball team, and the boys are fully determined to grab every game of the series.

Captain Hemming has the same team for this evening that defeated the Detroit Y. M. C. in their first game here. An additional guard has been secured for the game and Jess Dixon, the former I. A. C. phenom will be trailed every minute and he will find it a hard job to drop them in the way he usually does.

Sachs, another I. A. C. player brought to Beloit for the game, is a guard, no mean ability and should be pitted against Phelps, who will have a difficult job from keeping "Skinny" from dropping them in from any angle on the floor.

Hemming, the rangy Camp Grant center will be on hand this evening and "Hemmy" stated that he was going to go better tonight than ever before. He is anxious to demonstrate to the fans of this city that he knows the game from all angles and his playing tonight will be considerably better as he is used to the floor by this time.

Finally, the Madison guard will be on deck and anyone getting by him is a mighty good basketball player. He is playing the game every minute and the forwards always find it a tough job to get near the basket.

Owing to the lack of enthusiasm on the part of the local fans the management of the Cardinals is contemplating closing the season after this game this evening, unless the crowd is larger than it has been. The crowds so far this season have been exceedingly small and with the local team going good the people of Janesville should get out and boost the team.

Janesville is anxious to beat Beloit and will do everything in their power to top the game this evening. The team representing this city at the playoffs of the league is being made up of players in the middle west and after the last game against Detroit last week, William Broughman, the Detroit manager, "Vagabond" team in on the best basketball ball teams I have seen in several years and in my estimation the team should be able to beat anything in the Big 9 conference this season.

Janesville has a basketball team they can be justly proud of and it should be a matter of pride for the people to come to the Armory and cheer for the team. This city is being advertised throughout the country as having a real quietest and every effort has been made by the management to give the people of this city a winning team.

The line ups this evening will be:

Cardinals	Fairies
Hemming	R. F.
Phelps	L. F.
Franklin	Murphy
Cassidy	R. G.
Peterson	L. G.

"Friend Wife" Makes Him Quit Wrestling Game

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 26.—Friends of Earl Caddock, world's dressing champion, are inclined to believe that the announcement just received from France that he had decided to quit wrestling and turn farmer exclusively.

This information was contained in a special bulletin from the overseas edition of the Camp Dodge, the publication of the eighty-eighth division, to which Caddock was attached as sergeant. It came from Grandcourt, France, and was as follows:

"Caddock is on his way home, but he will wrestle no more. Before he left the division, he told his friends that when he was released from the army he was going to retire permanently from the struggles of the mat and turn farmer."

"It is to be a Wyoming ranch and it's all on account of friend wife. For Caddock frankly admitted that his wife objected to the wrestling game. He said he had cleaned up $30,000 in the last year and was ready to retire anyway. He added that he would ignore all the many offers of matches he had received."

GOLF ENTHUSIASTS PLAY GAME IN NET

The golf net completely enclosing the place and allowing a full game of golf to be played indoors, which was installed at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday, is already being used by enthusiasts. It is expected that its popularity will grow.

Inside the net, the player places his ball in various pockets. The accuracy of his drive again the big canvas wall denotes the number of yards covered and the number to the next hole. The necessary club is used for each stroke. After the player has driven his ball near enough to the theoretical pocket, he places it on a putting mat, representing the putting green, where he plays for the hole.

Secretary Beaumore stated this morning that the mat would be open to use day and night, because of the fact that it has been set up in the dining room of the Y. M. C. A., where it will not interfere with gymnasium work.

Kentucky Jockey Club Has $3,000,000 Capital

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 26.—A corporation with a capitalization of $3,000,000, to be known as the Kentucky Jockey club is to be formed to take over the four Kentucky racing plants, Latonia, Lexington, Douglas Park and Churchill Downs, upon which options were recently taken by a syndicate of Kentucky horsemen.

In the announcement, it is declared that among the objects sought in the consolidation is the placing of racing on a higher plane in the state, and the belief is indicated that this can best be done by daily scattering the stock among breeders and owners of thoroughbred horses themselves.

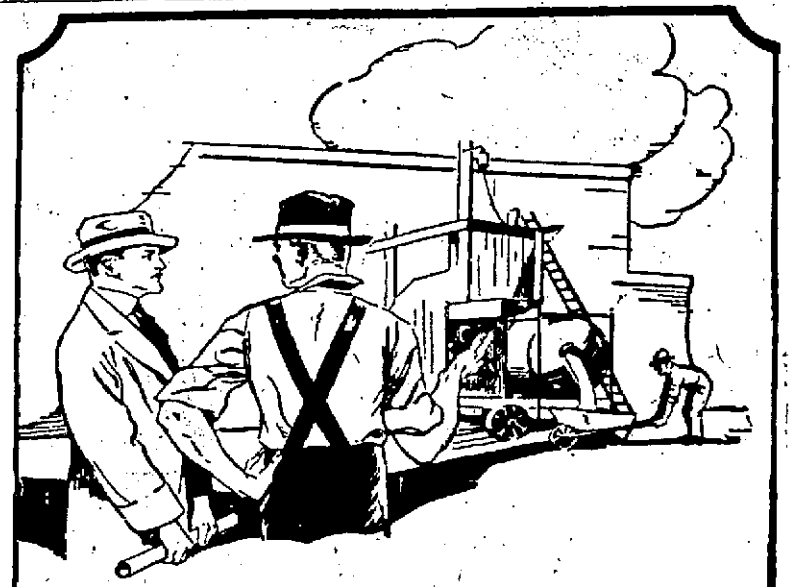

The capitalization will be divided into $1,000,000 of preferred stock and $2,000,000 of common stock.

Rowland Strong for Women Baseball Fans

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 26.—Presence of women at baseball games will result in a cleaner and better sport in the eyes of Clarence Rowland, the new owner of the Milwaukee club of the American association who has declared himself in favor of setting aside a "Ladies' Day" each week throughout the circuit.

"We want the women fans," Rowland said, "I for one recognize that their presence means cleaner games and the elimination of rowdiness on the field and objective language in the grand stands. If for no other reason, I would be in favor of a 'Ladies' Day.' We want cleaner and better sport."

Moving operations have begun quite extensively in Northeast Fort. The Spike and Haylock families have moved to Edgerton, the Gagan family to the Haylock farm, the Leners family to the Spike farm, Lyman Strouse and family to the Barber farm north of Edgerton, and Ward Whitford and family to the farm recently purchased of William Gardiner Jr.

The Hopper

of a concrete mixer has a good appetite and a great capacity at the top. But all that goes into it must pass easily through the narrow outlet at the bottom. If the man on the job goes away and leaves the mixture to harden in the hopper—he gets fired—that's all.

And the machine is put out of working order for a time. It's easy for you to satisfy your appetite with food. But if you neglect yourself, and the food waste dries out, hardens and stagnates in your lower bowel—if you become constipated—your body machinery will suffer, and if you try to get rid of the mass by taking castor oil, pills, salts, mineral waters, etc., to force the bowels to move, you will only make matters worse.

You can't fire yourself for neglect. And you can't cure constipation by forming the habit of taking medicine every time you want your bowels to move. But you can overcome the trouble by taking Nujol.

Nujol brings about the habit of easy, thorough bowel evacuation at regular intervals, because Nujol is not a drug, not at all like any drug. Nujol brings about a return to Nature's methods by supplying necessary lubrication of the bowel contents, by facilitating intestinal muscular action, by absorbing poisonous matter, and thus securing necessary cleansing of the intestinal canal.

Nujol makes you regular as clockwork—use it, and you'll not have to worry about the size of your appetite or the ability of your body machine to get rid of dangerous food waste.

Get a bottle of Nujol from your druggist today, and send for free booklet "Thirty Feet of Danger."

Warning: Nujol is sold only in sealed bottles bearing the Nujol Trade Mark. At all druggists. Insist on Nujol. You may suffer from substitutes.
